Ella provides opportunity for students to create their own work, offering additional training in writing, producing and directing or musical theatre.

In 2014 members of the Ella academy worked alongside the Ella performance group on a short film called 'We are People Too. This combined effort won best film and best actress at the North West Clapperboard Awards.

Exclusion Limits Life's Achievements

Enjoyment is not a goal, it is a feeling that accompanies ongoing activity ...Paul Goodman

Classes are lead by professionally trained teachers and all 3 disciplines are taught (dance, drama and singing)

Artistic excellence goes hand in hand with learning and personal growth. Through our classes we offer opportunities that will enable students to:

- Develop skills in acting, dance and singing
- Film and theatre production
- Improving physical fitness and co-ordination through dance and movement
- Learning how to work and be part of a team
- Developing social skills and making friends
- Gaining independence and confidence

Working to achieve artistic excellence and taking our work out to audiences is an important part of the work at Ellatogether as we aim to change the perceptions of disability.

At Ellatogether we place a great emphasis on developing each students social skills through the work undertaken in our academy - encouraging active listening, speaking confidently in front of the class and awareness how tone of voice, facial expression and body language are used when communicating with others. We also encourage our students to analyse their own work and give positive feedback to others in the class, so ensuring everyone is encouraged to achieve their best and improve on their work as they go in a supportive and encouraging environment.

Our tutors have high expectations and encourage students to challenge themselves and work at a high level
