

Multi-sensory handwriting activity.

1. Scribe the letter using a whiteboard pen so that the child can see how you have written it. Talk through how you are writing it , emphasising the start point- did you start on the line?

Then ask the child to write over the letter while saying the letter name. Do not rub this out.

2. When the child is successful with step 1, then ask the child to copy the letter while saying the letter name.
3. Next, boxes 1&2 must be covered and the child must write the letter from memory while saying the name.
4. Finally, the child must close their eyes and write the letter while saying the letter name.
